WCJC officials unveil founder's plaque

By TRICIA POTTS
Journal-Spectator News Service

In commemoration of Wharton County Junior College's founding fathers' contributions, a founder's plaque was unveiled Tuesday in the WCJC Administration Building of the main campus. The unveiling was the first of several activities planned in conjunction with the junior college's 60th anniversary celebration.

Danny Gertson III, WCJC board of trustees chairman, and Dr. Vic Driscoll, a former WCJC trustee and former Wharton mayor, unveiled the plaque to more than 50 guests, including past and present board members, faculty members of the original founding fathers, and WCJC faculty and staff.

Gertson, who is the grandson of P.D. "Pete" Gertson, one of the founding fathers honored on the plaque, told the crowd, "We owe today's success to the vision of the original founders, the current and past board members, the faculty and the staff."

In 1944, a post-war planning committee, comprised of Wharton County leaders, was established to explore higher education opportunities after the war. In 1945, citizens from various sections of the county met as a County Junior College committee and were responsible for selling the idea of a junior college to the citizens in the area. In September 1946, classes began with an approximate enrollment of 200 students.

Today the WCJC system services six counties and has an enrollment of more than 6,000 students.

Other opening-day activities planned for the 60th anniversary celebration included a re-dedication at the newly renovated Horton Foote Theatre. After a brief concert by the WCJC choir, the public was given an opportunity to view the engraved seat plaques that funded the renovations.

At 11 a.m. today the unveiling of a 60th anniversary watercolor painting created by WCJC art instructor Jess W. Coleman in the J.M. Hodges Learning Center library will take place.

Among other activities, the college will unveil a new artifact at the Wharton County Historical Museum on Friday, April 13, with events starting at 11 a.m.

Bush’s 1968 WCJC visit added to museum exhibit

By RONALD K. SANDERS
Journal-Spectator Managing Editor

In 1968, Flower Power was in full bloom. The Beatles released Yellow Submarine. Martin Luther King Jr. and Robert Kennedy were assassinated. Jacqueline Kennedy married Aristotle Onassis. And Richard Nixon was elected president of the United States.

However, there’s a piece of Wharton County trivia from that very same year regarding another U.S. president, George Herbert Walker Bush.

Bush was elected president 20 years later, in 1988, but, in 1968, he was a young U.S. Congressman. And he visited Wharton County Junior College.

It was on May 10, 1968.

He was the speaker at a Young Republicans dinner. The program says Don Middlebrook of Wharton was the organization’s president.

WCJC president Betty McCrohan unveiled a framed program, along with pictures of Bush from his visit, at a luncheon Friday at the Wharton County Historical Museum.

“We knew it was important to recognize this individual’s visit,” McCrohan said.

And she added that she’d like to see the elder Bush, who lives in Houston, return again.

The artifacts from Bush’s visit were donated to the museum’s WCJC exhibit, which includes a photo of first president J.M. Hodges, a photo of the Post War Planning Board, an old basketball jersey, a Starlettes uniform, and a baseball bat used by the WCJC pioneers.

McCrohan also unveiled a photo from the college’s first graduating class from 1947, mostly made up of World War II veterans, that also is being given to the museum.

The museum luncheon was the culmination of a week of activities celebrating the college’s 60th anniversary of its founding.

“Nothing is more fitting to celebrate the history of the college than at the museum,” McCrohan said.

WCJC has tough time at Hill Col.

By MIKE KONVICKA
mkonvicka@journal-spectator.com

WCJC's men's and women's rodeo teams fell on hard times at this past weekend's Southern Region competition held at Hill College in Hillsboro.

The men's team finished eighth with 32 points.

Texas A&M took the title with 475 points. Sam Houston was second with 403, Northeast Texas Community College was third with 394, Panola was fourth with 359, Southwest Texas Junior College was fifth with 255 and McNeese State University was seventh with 214.

WCJC slipped to third in the regional standings with 3,264 points.

"We haven't done a whole lot, but I have faith that we will put it out in the end," said WCJC rodeo coach Sean Amesloy.

"Every horse stubs his toe every once in a while and I'm not too worried about it.

They say the cream always rises to the top and I figure that we're going to have some ups and downs."

WCJC plays host to the ninth of 10 Southern Region competitions Friday and Saturday in the Johnson Arena at the Crescent Fairgrounds.

The events are scheduled for 7:30 p.m. both nights.

NETCC leads the region with 4,850 points, and Sam Houston is second with 3,451 points.

WCJC's ladies team didn't score any points at Hill and ranks fifth in the region with 822 1/2 points.

Wharton County Junior College honored for long-time education of county students

BY MIKE REDDEL
Tribune Publisher

Selling the note financing the Synergy Learning Center was approved and related proclamations honoring Bay City councilman Joe Enoch and Wharton County Junior College were read at city council's regular meeting Thursday.

Council also gave the owners of a new hotel a variance on setback requirements and heard new complaints about pit bulls threatening a Bay City neighborhood.

Council's resolution on selling the $4 million note for renovating and refurbishing the 3800 Avenue F training center to Wells Fargo Bank was required after Bay City Community Development Corporation approved the note at its April 2 meeting.

Wells Fargo is charging 4.71 percent on the 15-year note, with BCCDC paying $47,100 for the first four quarters and $97,953 for the next 56 payments.

Debt service will come from the city's 4B economic-development sales tax revenues.

DC Dunham, BCCDC executive director, said those revenues are running 23 percent higher than this time last year.

"This is a great opportunity for us," Dunham said of the loan. She praised Wells Fargo's patience over a several-month period in extending its offer on the note.

Councilman Anthony Hawkins earlier asked Dunham about the progress of work on the training center. "Are we on target?"

Dunham said it is, adding "As it stands now, we're under budget.

"Being able to shop Bay City first is a real good feeling for us," Dunham said, noting the extensive purchase of products and materials from local vendors.

Mayor Richard Knapik read at the meeting a proclamation honoring councilman Enoch, also BCCDC president, for his role in guiding the progress on the training center.

The proclamation, first presented March 13 at Matagorda Day in Austin, notes that one of Enoch's most recent notable roles in leadership was the facilitation of the development of the Synergy Learning Center, a joint venture between STP, WCJC, BCCDC and the city.

"This was a team effort," Enoch said. "Without that this isn't possible. There was a lot of good leadership involved in developing the training center.

WCJC also was honored with a council proclamation for its long-time education of students from Matagorda County — which accounts for 10 percent of the school's enrollment — and for its commitment to the new training center.

David Dunham, WCJC's Matagorda County Coordinator, said he "looks forward to opening classes in the center."

Dunham said those would include the new power-technology education, developed in cooperation with STP, and the established process-technology coursework.

City council Thursday also approved a variance to the city's setback requirements for an enclosure for a waste receptacle at the new Studio 6 Hotel on Texas 35 East.

The enclosure is 35 feet from the street, while city code requires 35 feet from the property line, a difference of about 12 feet.

At council's March 22 meeting, the issue focused more on the enclosure's location — near the street, opposed to the rear of the lot as originally planned.

Williams and building inspector Bill Shipp reviewed the situation after the March 22 meeting and the contractor repeated the hotel's owners intention to put the enclosure closer to the street to keep garbage trucks from going through the parking lot.

Williams said there are no problems with adjacent property owners, adding that hotel owners nevertheless will plant an eight-foot-high Indian Hawthorne shrub barrier on the property line.

Council voted 4 to 1 to grant the variance, with council member Kelly Ross dissenting.

"I just don't like the idea of going with a garbage receptacle (near the street) when we're trying to beautify the city," she said.

During council's public comments section, council heard from Jean Deadrick, 1313 Ave. A. She urged the city to enforce ordinances dealing with loud music and to take action on pit bulls roaming in her neighborhood.

Noting negative reaction to another woman's complaints about the breed at the last council meeting, Deadrick said, "I think anyone who doesn't think a pit bull is dangerous is crazy."

Judging for the tailgate cook-off is at 3 p.m.

The Wharton County Junior College rodeo competition continues tonight at 7:30 p.m. in the Johnson Arena.

ond count.

The pig chase pits panicked porkers against a pack of fair participants. Not quite the same as a calf scramble, it is sure to have the audience squealing in delight.

WCJC, UH break ground on $35M joint Sugar Land venture

Wharton County Junior College and the University of Houston System have broken ground on a $35-million project to build a new academic facility in Sugar Land.

Officials Friday attended a groundbreaking ceremony at the Fred and Mabel R. Parks Rotunda in Sugar Land. The building is scheduled for completion by the fall of 2008 and is expected to create 200 jobs.

The project is part of the "Building Futures Together" campaign started in May 2005 to support construction of a new academic building at the University of Houston System at Sugar Land to be shared by the UH System and Wharton County Junior College.

"We at Wharton County Junior College look forward to working alongside the University of Houston System at Sugar Land in serving the educational needs of the emerging population of Sugar Land," said WCJC President Betty McCrohan.

"Although we have operated a campus in Sugar Land since 1990, this new facility will provide students with the convenience of obtaining their freshman, sophomore, junior and senior level courses at one location.

"We realize the need to keep educational affordable and accessible and encourage potential students to consider the joint admissions agreement between the WCJC and UHSSSL, which was intended to save our students time and expenses."

The new building will add 145,000 square feet of classroom and instructional space to the existing Sugar Land campus. The junior college will lease about two-thirds of the space.

In addition to meeting the educational needs of this growing population, housing both UHSSSL and the junior college on the same campus is anticipated to help each institution devote more of its funds to educational activities rather than to infrastructure.

Both institutions will reduce duplication of services by sharing certain administrative expenses, technology resources, labs, classrooms and student service functions. The joint facility also will allow students to fulfill most or all of their educational needs on a single campus that offers lower-level and upper-level courses.

"The building to be constructed at the UH System in Sugar Land would not have been possible had it not been for the collaboration of many," said Tim Hudson, president of UH-Victoria.

"This partnership is receiving rave reviews in Austin as a model for moving forward at this time of competing funding priorities in the Legislature. Every stakeholder has recognized they have a vested interest in meeting the educational needs of the Fort Bend area and the state. The return on investment will be enormous."

The plan calls for more than 50 new classrooms of various sizes, as well as a performance hall/auditorium; computer, science and nursing skills labs; faculty offices; a bookstore; a weight room; an aerobics room; and a student lounge.

The new classrooms will provide seating for about 2,500 students.

The current facility, the Albert and Marnie George Building, will serve as an instructional site and as the administrative headquarters for UHSSSL and Wharton County Junior College.

The building is being designed by the joint-venture team of Architechines,3, in association with PageSoutierlandPage, both of which have a history of working with higher education institutions.

The contractor is Skanska USA Building Inc., one of the world's leading construction groups, with expertise in construction, development of commercial and residential projects and public-private partnerships.

In addition to McCrohan and Hudson, other dignitaries on hand for Friday's ceremony included David G. Wallace, mayor of Sugar Land; Leroy Hermes, chairman of the UH System Board of Regents; Jay Gogue, chancellor of the UH System; P.D. "Danny" Gertson III, chairman of the Wharton County Junior College Board of Trustees; and Denise Adams, alumna of Wharton County Junior College, UH-Downtown and UHSSSL.
WCJC coach, ex-Ricebird hangs it up

After coaching volleyball at Wharton County Junior College for 26 years, Harold Shilk is retiring.

Shilk tendered his resignation after spring break in mid-March.

"It was a tough decision," said Shilk, who is 64 years old. "It's been a great time here."

One reason why he decided to step down was his wife Judy's battle with cancer.

"I tried to be more with my family than at school," said Shilk. "I'll really miss the athletes and that's why I stayed in coaching as long as I did."

His retirement officially begins on July 6. But he has other aspirations for his free time.

"I want to work on my ranch," said Shilk. "I've been looking forward to this day of being a rancher and moving out to the farm."

"We'll travel a bunch and I'm looking forward to the ranching part. I want something new and different before I die."

Shilk, who graduated from El Campo, got his masters degree at Sam Houston State University in Huntsville in 1971 where he played tennis.

He coached tennis at Blinn College in Brenham from 1971-81 before coming to WCJC.

He replaced WCJC's first volleyball coach, Ann Plumber, who started in 1975.

Shilk totaled up a career record of 777 wins and 432 losses during his tenure. It ranks first among all junior colleges in Texas and sixth in the nation.

"That was never my goal," said Shilk. "I never thought that I would ever coach this long."

He had four teams that made it to nationals.

The 1983 team finished 10th, his '89 team finished fourth. The '92 team and '94 team both finished fifth.

Shilk, who never coached volleyball before he came WCJC, credited the players.

"I recruited good players and they taught me the game," said Shilk. "They were just good athletes."

During his tennis tenure, from 1981-91, the 1983 team finished fifth in the nation. The men's and women's team also made to nationals in 1986-87.

Shilk had several outstanding players over the past 26 years and 14 earned All-American honors. He also had 24 Academic All-Americans.

"You can't beat that," said Shilk. "I've had 35 kids that went and graduated from colleges."
WCJC takes campus threat seriously after Virginia Tech killings

By BENJAMIN C. SHARP
bensharp@journal-spectator.com

Police pulled a Wharton County Junior College student out of class this week after it was reported the man had carried a gun onto campus.

But the man was let go after police were unable to find any weapons.

“It turned out to not be anything,” said Captain Richard Coleman of the Wharton Police Department. “We didn’t feel as though this kid was a threat.”

Police said the college’s financial aid office received a telephone call around 7:30 a.m. Thursday. The anonymous caller said the 24-year-old student possibly had a gun.

Police officers and detectives arrived about an hour later.

They interviewed the student and searched his car. Nothing was found.

(See WCJC CALL, Page 8-A)

The student later told officers that he had no idea who would make such a call. Police have been unable to track down the caller, Coleman said.

Though likely a prank, Coleman said police took the incident seriously — especially in light of this week’s college shooting in Virginia.

“Of course with the Virginia Tech thing, it makes you wonder,” Coleman said. “Any threat, we’re going to look at it and take it seriously.”

The police investigation is closed.

Wharton County Junior College issued a brief statement Friday afternoon acknowledging the Wharton incident and another at the Sugar Land campus. Both were false, they said.

They'll play a doubleheader today in Alvin.

League-leading 17-7 San Jacinto starts a three-game series today on the Border against Laredo.

Brett Carnline started for the Pioneers and pitched into the fifth.

Payton Pawloski, Jacob Liedka and Zach Weyland also took the mound.

Bobby Gomez started for Alvin and went six innings.

Alvin jumped out to a 1-0 lead in the second inning on a walk-off homer by Joel Garcia.

The Dolphin picked up four runs in the fifth to go 5-0.

Leo Delgado and Matt Flores singled and Chris Dunkin followed with a home run.

Sean Meyer then walked and scored on a single by Anthony Rothman.

WCJC made it 5-1 in the bottom of the sixth after Chris Neiser singled and scored on a sacrifice fly ball by Ryan Phoenix.

Alvin picked up two runs in the seventh to go up 7-1.

Delgado walked and moved to second on a sacrifice bunt by Flores. Dunkin singled home Delgado.

After Meyers grounded out, Garcia doubled home Delgado.

WCJC made it 7-2 with a run in the seventh when Patrick Palacios singled and scored on a hit by Jake Koehl.

The Pioneers could come up with only one run in the eighth inning to make it 7-3 and left the bases loaded.

Spud Bromberg singled and was erased on a fielders choice ground ball by Kyle Koenig.

Alex Johnson then reached on a fielders choice.

Patrick Palacios and John West walked to load the bases.

Koehl then drew a free pass and Johnson scored.

Alvin got the run back in the top of the ninth to go up 8-3. Flores walked and moved to second on a wild pitch.

He later scored on a ground ball by Rothman.

Gun report at WCJC unfounded

By BENJAMIN C. SHARP
bensharp@journal.spectator.com

Police pulled two Wharton County Junior College students out of class at two different campuses this week after it was reported that a man had carried a gun onto campus.

But both men were let go after police were unable to find any weapons.

“It turned out to not be anything,” said Captain Richard Coleman of the Wharton Police Department.

“We didn’t feel as though this kid was a threat.”

Police said the college’s financial aid office at the Wharton campus received a telephone call around 7:30 a.m. Thursday. An anonymous caller said a 24-year-old student possibly had a gun.

College administrators immediately contacted both Wharton and Sugar Land police.

“Two students, one enrolled at the Sugar Land campus, and one enrolled at the Wharton campus, both have the name the caller identified,” said WCJC’s Zina Carter.

Carter said police interviewed both students and searched their vehicles.

“No weapons were found,” she said.

The student at the Wharton campus told officers that he had no idea who would make such a call, said Coleman. Police have been unable to track down the caller, he added.

Though likely a prank, Coleman said police took the incident seriously — especially in light of this week’s college shooting in Virginia.

The current Albert and Mamie George Building, will serve as an instructional site and as the administrative headquarters for UHSSL and WCJC.

Besides McCrohan and Hudson, others present for Friday’s event included David G. Wallace, mayor of Sugar Land; Leroy Hermes, chairman of the UH System Board of Regents; Jay Gogue, chancellor of the UH System; P.D. “Danny” Gerton III, chairman of the WCJC Board of Trustees; and Denise Adams, alumna of WCJC, UH-Downtown and UHSSL.
The Wharton County Junior College Student Government Association will have the Diamonds for Donors Blood Drive from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Wednesday, April 25, and from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. Thursday, April 26, in the Pioneer Student Center.
A groundbreaking ceremony for a new $35 million academic building at the University of Houston System at Sugar Land was held Friday outside the Albert and Mamie George Building.

The academic building is scheduled for completion in fall, 2008, part of the “Building Futures Together” campaign started in May 2005 to support construction of a new academic building to be shared by the UH System and Wharton County Junior College.

It will add 145,000 square feet of classroom and instructional space to the existing Sugar Land campus, with WCJC leasing about two-thirds of the space from the UH System.

The plan calls for more than 50 new classrooms of various sizes as well as a performance hall/auditorium.

The new classrooms will provide seating for about 2,500 students. The current Albert and Mamie George Building will serve as an instructional site and the administrative headquarters for the UHSSL and WCJC colleges.

The building is being designed by the joint-venture team of Arch*technics/3, in association with PageSoutherlandPage, both of which have a history of working with higher education institutions. The contract for the building is with Skanska USA Building Inc.

Both institutions will reduce duplication of services by sharing certain administrative expenses, technology resources, labs, classrooms and student service functions. The joint facility will allow students to fulfill most or all of their educational needs on a single campus that offers lower-level and upper-level courses.

WCJC opened a campus in Sugar Land in 1990 and a campus in Richmond with the Technical State Technical College in 1990. Dr. Betty McCrohan, president of the WCJC System, said the new facility will provide students with the convenience of obtaining their senior-level courses at one location.

Guest speakers at Friday’s ceremony included David G. Wallace, mayor of Sugar Land; Leroy Hermes, chairman of the UH System Board of Regents; Jay Gogue, chancellor of the UH System; Tim Hudson, president of UH-Victoria; Dr. Danny Gerston III, chairman of the WCJC board of trustees; McCrohan; and Denise Adams, alumna of WCJC, UH-Downtown and UHSSL.

Shilk retires as WCJC spiker coach

BY MIKE KONVICKA
mkonvicka@jsums.edu

WHARTON - After coaching volleyball at Wharton County Junior College for 26 years, Harold Shilk is retiring.

"It was a tough decision," said Shilk, 64. "It’s been a great time here."

One reason why he decided to step down was his wife Judy’s battle with cancer.

"I'm trying to be more with my family than at school," said Shilk.

"I'll really miss the athletes and that’s why I stayed in coaching as long as I did."

His retirement is effective July 6.

But he has other aspirations for his free time. "I want to work on my ranch," said Shilk.

"I've been looking forward to this day of being a rancher and moving out to the farm."

"We’ll travel a bunch and I’m looking forward to the ranching part. I want something new and different before I die."

Shilk, who graduated from El Campo, got his masters degree at Sam Houston State University in Huntsville in 1971 where he played tennis.

He coached tennis at Blinn College in Brenham from 1971-81 before coming to WCJC.

He replaced WCJC’s first volleyball coach, Ann Plummer, who started in 1975.

Shilk totaled up a career record of 777 wins and 432 losses during his tenure. It ranks first among all junior colleges in Texas. He ranks sixth in the nation.

"That was never my goal," said Shilk.

He had four teams which made it to nationals.

The 1983 team finished 10th, his '89 team finished fourth. The '92 and '94 teams finished fifth.

Shilk, who had never coached volleyball when he came to WCJC, credited the players.

"I recruited good players, and they taught me the game," said Shilk. "They were just good athletes."

The 1983 team finished fifth in the nation.

The men’s and women’s team also made it to nationals in 1986-87.

Shilk had several outstanding players over the past 26 years and 14 earned All-American honors. He also had 24 All-Academic All Americans.

"You can’t beat that," said Shilk.

Shilk will return a number of players from last year’s team that went 11-17.

He also signed several seniors from high school throughout Wharton County.

They include Christi Ellis from Wharton, Emmy Rodgers from Wharton and Terra Lopez from Wharton.

"We have some really good players coming back and coming in and with some new blood, the new person should do well."

Shilk’s replacement will go through a process headed up by the WCJC Human Resources department.

Brett Carnline took the mound and got into trouble and Mike Arevealo finished the seventh inning game which ended via the 10-run rule.

Sebastian Belt went the distance for San Jacinto and gave up eight hits.

The Gators scored seven runs in the sixth to break open a 4-0 game.

San Jac jumped out to a 2-0 lead in the first and picked up two more runs in the fourth.

Pioneer Chris Neiser was three for four. Daniel Meyer, Reno Malay, John West, Jake Koehl and Dan Billingsley had the other hits.

WCJC hurler Zach Weyland throws a pitch in a recent game against Alvin. The Pioneers play a doubleheader with the Dolphins today in Alvin to complete their season.

WCJC openings increase for students pursuing careers as registered nurses

WHARTON, TEXAS - To meet the growing need for registered nurses in the Gulf Coast Region, Wharton County Junior College is increasing the number of students admitted to its initial licensure registered nursing (RN) programs beginning this fall.

The Associate Degree Nursing (ADN) program on the Wharton campus will increase enrollment by 66 percent, admitting up to 50 students, for the fall 2007 semester. The LVN-ADN transition program, an educational option for licensed vocational nurses who wish to become RNs, will maintain its current enrollment numbers. Wharton County Junior College also plans to add an ADN program at its new facility on the campus of the University of Houston System at Sugar Land. Approximately 20 students will be admitted to this new WCJC program each year.

In addition to increasing admissions to the initial licensure RN programs, the college will merge its vocational nursing (VN) programs into a single program located on the Wharton campus. Although the college will no longer occupy space in the OakBend Doctor’s Center, students in the VN program will continue to gain clinical experience in their rotations at Richmond’s OakBend Medical Center.

“The consolidation of the vocational nursing programs allows WCJC to dedicate its resources to strengthen the educational preparation of nurses. We are indebted to the OakBend Medical Center administration and clinical staff for their continued support in serving as an exemplary clinical site and valued partner in nursing education,” said WCJC President Betty McCrohan.

Increasing the number of students admitted to the ADN programs will help address the shortage of registered nurses in the Gulf Coast Region and meet the directive of the 79th Texas Legislature to increase graduation rates from initial licensure RN programs.

Betty McCrohan

said McCrohan.

“We look forward to continuing our strong relationship with Wharton County Junior College and providing assistance in graduating well-trained nurses,” said David Rowe, chief executive officer of OakBend Medical Center. “We will remain a clinical training site for Wharton County Junior College and are supportive of their endeavors.”

Responding to that directive by the Texas Legislature, the Texas Higher Education Coordinating Board recently issued a report calling on the state’s nursing programs to increase graduation rates from initial licensure RN programs by 50 percent.

Also, an analysis of data from The WorkSource of the Houston-Galveston Area Council indicated that there would be approximately 2,200 RN job openings per year in the Gulf Coast Region through 2014. The analysis also indicated that there would be approximately 700 LVN job openings per year.

“WCJC recognizes the continuing need for licensed vocational nurses and the even greater need for RNs. This focus in nursing program admissions is WCJC’s response to the workforce data that shows the Gulf Coast Region needs approximately one RN to every three or four RNs,” McCrohan said.
WCJC men’s rodeo team misses trip to national finals

HUNTSVILLE – WCJC men’s rodeo team will miss a trip to the National College Finals Rodeo this year.

WCJC finished third in the Southern Region of the National Intercollegiate Rodeo Association with 4,319 points. Only the top two teams qualify.

Northeast Texas Community College won the title with 5,725 points and Sam Houston State University was second with 4,391 1/2 points.

"With the talent we have we should have won or finished second," said WCJC coach Sean Amestoy.

It came down to this past weekend's final rodeo in Huntsville when the Bearcats took the title with 465 points. WCJC was second with 460 points.

"Sometimes things happen beyond your control," said Amestoy.

"We had a good year, but I will always believe that this team was one of the best in the region and we just happened to end up third.

"We did a lot of good things this year and I was real proud of the guys and the girls too.

"Unfortunately we came up just a little bit short."

WCJC was the reserve national champion last year after winning the region.

WCJC will still be represented at the nationals as Douglas Ducan won the regional bull riding competition with 595 points.

The Pioneers lost Thursday's game at Tiger Field 11-0.

WCJC's worst season before this year came in 2000 when the Pioneers went 9-27.

The 2001 team went 11-25.

WCJC was 11-23 in 2006, was 19-17 in 2005 and won the zone in 2004 with a 25-8 record.

Chris Neiser, Brett Carnline and Zach Weyland pitched the first game.

Reno Malay and John West had the lone Pioneer hits.

Bobby Neelon, Mike Arevalo and Payton Pawloski pitched the second game.

WCJC went hitless.

The Gators and Blinn tied for first with 22-8 records.

Alvin finished third at 19-11.

Galveston was fourth at 12-18 and Laredo was fifth at 10-20.

The regional tournament will be played May 12-16 at Blinn College in Brenham.

"We had a good year, but I will always believe that this team was one of the best in the region and we just happened to end up third."

"We did a lot of good things this year, and I was real proud of the guys and the girls too."

"Unfortunately we came up just a little bit short."

WCJC was the reserve national champion last year after winning the region.

WCJC will still be represented at the nationals as Douglas Duce won the regional bull riding competition with 595 points.

WCJC expands nursing program

To meet the growing need for registered nurses in the Gulf Coast Region, Wharton County Junior College is increasing the number of students admitted to its initial licensure registered nursing programs beginning this fall.

The Associate Degree Nursing, or ADN, program on the Wharton campus will increase enrollment by 66 percent, admitting up to 50 students, for the fall 2007 semester.

The licensed vocational nurse — ADN transition program, an educational option for licensed vocational nurses who wish to become RNs — will maintain its current enrollment numbers.

Wharton County Junior College also plans to add an ADN program at its new facility on the campus of the University of Houston System at Sugar Land. Approximately 20 students will be admitted to this new WCJC program each year.

In addition to increasing admissions to the initial licensure RN programs, the college will merge its vocational nursing programs into a single program located on the Wharton campus.

Although the college will no longer occupy space in the OakBend Doctor's Center, students in the VN program will continue to gain clinical experience in their rotations at Richmond's OakBend Medical Center.

"The consolidation of the vocational nursing programs allows WCJC to dedicate its resources to strengthen the educational preparation of nurses," said WCJC president Betty McCrohan.

We are indebted to the OakBend Medical Center administration and clinical staff for their continued support in serving as an exemplary clinical site and valued partner in nursing education.

In response to this growing need for vocational nurses in WCJC's service area, which includes Fort Bend County, the Wharton-based VN program will admit up to 40 students per year.

Qualified VN applicants will be considered for admission in accordance with the standards set for all WCJC allied health programs.

The application deadline for the VN program is May 31.

Staff at the Richmond VN program office will continue to receive telephone calls at 281-342-1114 through August 10 and answer applicants' questions and assist them with the application process.

"Increasing the number of students admitted to the ADN programs will help address the shortage of registered nurses in the Gulf Coast Region and meet the directive of the 79th Texas Legislature to increase graduation rates from initial licensure RN programs," said McCrohan.

"We look forward to continuing our strong relationship with Wharton County Junior College and providing assistance in graduating well-trained nurses," said David Rowe, chief executive officer of OakBend Medical Center.

"We will remain a clinical training site for Wharton County Junior College and are supportive of their endeavors."

Responding to that directive by the Texas Legislature, the Texas Higher Education Coordinating Board recently issued a report calling on the state's nursing programs to increase graduation rates from initial licensure RN programs by 50 percent. Also, an analysis of data from The WorkSource of the Houston-Galveston Area Council indicated that there would be approximately 2,200 RN job openings per year in the Gulf Coast Region through 2014. The analysis also indicated that there would be approximately 700 LVN job openings per year.

"WCJC recognizes the continuing need for licensed vocational nurses and the even greater need for RNs. This focus in nursing program admissions is WCJC's response to the workforce data that shows the Gulf Coast Region needs approximately one LVN to every three or four RNs," McCrohan said.

WCJC moves nursing class; students worried

BY DENISE ADAMS
dhadams@ibherald.com

After almost 50 years, the licensed vocational nursing program in Richmond is closing its doors and relocating to Wharton. School officials believe consolidating the program with the Wharton program will be beneficial; however, current students believe closing the school in Richmond is the wrong move.

In 1958, the LVN program was established at Polly Ryon Memorial Hospital in Richmond and has been running under the umbrella of Wharton County Junior College.

Effective Aug. 21, the college will offer a single vocational nursing program at the Wharton campus. The Wharton-based vocational nursing program will admit up to 50 qualified students for the fall 2007 semester.

In 2008, when the Sugar Land campus opens in a new Sugar Land building, the opportunity to earn an advanced nursing degree, ADN, will be available at that site.

"The consolidation of the vocational nursing programs allows WCJC to dedicate its resources to strengthen the educational preparation of nurses," said WCJC President Betty McCrohan.

A 12-month certificate program provides classroom and hands-on experience. Many of the students carry out the clinical portion of their studies at OakBend Medical Center in Richmond, and future students will continue to perform their clinicals at OakBend.

Tracy Shaw, vice president of Marketing and Development at OakBend Hospital, said it was a surprise to them the school was closing in Richmond.

The classroom is located in the OakBend Doctors’ Center adjacent to OakBend hospital and is owned by a general partnership of David Wallace and Kevin Matecha, Wallace said the basement was under a long-term lease to OakBend and they were sub-leasing the space to the school.

A Surprise

For LVN students graduating this May, the decision to close the doors in Richmond came as a complete shock. Many said they would not have been able to enroll in the LVN program had it not been located in Richmond.

"Changing the location is only good for those who can commute to Wharton," said Kenneth Abuibilmen, a student in the class.

He drives from Houston to Richmond every day for classes and said the cost in gasoline alone would have made taking classes in Wharton out of the question for him.

Many of the students in the Richmond class have children who require day care.

"I have four children who go to day care, and for me to afford child care, I couldn't go to school," said Lydia Gonzales. "The day care doesn't open until 6 a.m., and it would be impossible for me to drive to Wharton."

Laquisha King echoed Gonzales' concerns, noting she was accepted to two LVN programs. She decided to enroll in the Richmond classes because she has three young children who require day care, and she would be unable to commute, study and meet day care time limits.

"Even driving cuts into study time," said Jennifer Collazos, another student. "This program is nothing to joke around with — it's a lot of work and time consuming."

Over the course of 12 months, students attend full-time class 40 hours per week, Monday through Friday. The student experiences classroom and hands-on experience, and many still balance this full-time school work with a part-time job and/or home duties.

Liz Prather has been an instructor for the past 24 years in Richmond and has been the director since 2004. She said her LVN graduates are confident and ready to assume a much-needed place in the work field, from working in doctor's offices, home health care and clinics.

"Approximately 20 percent of our graduates go on to get a registered nurse's degree," said Prather. Prather believes the Fort Bend community deserves to have the LVN program located within the county's boundaries.

"This program is vital to the community," said Prather.

In addition to Wharton, the only other LVN programs in close proximity to Fort Bend County are Houston Community College at the Medical Center in Houston, Alvin Community College in Alvin and Blinn College in Brenham, said Prather.

Changes in state licensing put the LVN program under the Texas State Board of Examiners. One of the board's concerns was the high attrition rate in the program.

"By consolidating, we hope our students won't be so isolated. We need to bring the programs all back together and strengthen the program," she said.

The Board of Nurse Examiners also felt the students were isolated in Richmond and did not have the opportunity to interact in a collegiate atmosphere. The consolidation, McCrohan hopes, will offer that opportunity to the students.

The Richmond students were adamant they were not shortchanged nor did they feel slighted for having tight quarters.

"We use the same books as the other students, we work with real people, and our classrooms aren't luxurious, but they do the job," said John Grillo.

The students cited the professionalism of the staff in Richmond, and many came to the school based on personal recommendations. McCrohan said they are not anticipating any faculty loss as the staff is vital to their curriculum.

McCrohan also said the 79th Texas Legislature has issued a directive to increase graduation rates by 50 percent from initial licensure RN programs. As the WCJC Technical Center in Richmond undergoes a Phase II building expansion, McCrohan said they will be looking at that facility as a possible site for an advanced nursing program.

According to the WorkSource in the Houston-Galveston Area, estimates are for approximately 2,200 RN job openings per year in the Gulf Coast region through 2014 with approximately 700 LVN job openings per year.

The Future

The Richmond graduating LVN students said the course requires months of planning, from enrollment to taking tests to finding accommodations for children.

Abuibilmen isn't sure why the program ended abruptly, asking if WCJC could have waited until next year, gauge the public's response and see if the demand for the LVN program was still high in this area.

"I thought the school's philosophy was to make people's dreams come true," said Abuibilmen. "My question is when do the students get to play a role in the decision making?"

McCrohan said they are looking at adding distance learning capabilities to the program during its second year in Wharton to help address the problem of the high cost of driving to Wharton for students accustomed to driving to Richmond.

"We're trying to do what's best for the program and our students," said McCrohan. "This is a great program; but as the work force changes, our response has to change. We have to make hard decisions sometimes, and this was one of them."

Staff will be available at the Richmond office through Friday, Aug. 10. Applicants can call 281-342-1114 for questions about the application process.
